DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPOSED CHANGE:  EXAR Corporation has been notified by Episil Technologies, Inc. that it will discontinue operation of one of its wafer production facilities and will no longer accept orders from Exar for devices manufactured at the current location effective June, 2012.  The circuits listed in this notice (all package types) will be transferred to an alternate production facility. Exar engineering will target the performance of the devices to meet the existing datasheet specifications.  To ensure a supply of products to support production needs during the transition period, all customers are urged to place purchase orders of the existing products no later than June 1 st 2012 to cover their requirements until they qualify and receive production orders of the new material.  You will be notified via PCN (Product Change Notification) as samples become available for evaluation. Production shipments of the new material will begin as inventory of the existing material is depleted.
